

Instructions for the Macro Field Paper 2022-2023

---

Deadline: July 31, 2023 to Chiara Paz via email (chiara@econ.ucla.edu)

Instructions:

1. The paper should be 20 to 30 pages long with one and a half spacing.
2. A minimum requirement is a critical survey paper on an area of the literature that was covered in one of the three classes, in the spirit of papers found in the Journal of Economic Literature. In that case, you should conclude with a section that provides some motivation for a new paper, or potential avenues for future research. You can describe the sketch of a model, a new motivating "stylized fact", etc.
3. Creative ideas are encouraged ranging from theory papers to empirical papers including replication of existing work on new data sets.
4. In the past, students have expanded on a paper that was submitted for one of the three classes. That is fine. Developing a paper out of a challenging homework exercise is also fine.
5. Students should avoid submitting the same paper, or a close variant of it, for two fields: e.g. Theory and macro, macro and international.
6. Papers should be written in clear English and free of grammatical and spelling errors.

Professor Geerolf recommends the following resources:

<https://fgeerolf.com/econ221/misc.html>

Professor Bigio recommends this book:

<http://www.amazon.com/Sense-Style-Thinking-Person-Writing/dp/0143127799>

Macro Field Paper Committee

Prof. Andy Atkeson

Prof. François Geerolf

Prof. Saki Bigio